Developmental Studies 2012 - 2013

STREAM C: CHILD DEVELOPMENT & CHILD CARE / EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

Developmental studies deals with the analysis of biological, environmental, and social factors that influence both individual and group development.

The University of Winnipeg offers the only degree-granting program in Early Childhood Education in Manitoba. Stream C is a professional program in the area of developmental studies, specifically designed for those who wish to obtain advanced early childhood education training.

This University of Winnipeg joint program is offered in cooperation with Red River College and Collège Universitaire de Saint-Boniface. The strength of this program is that it capitalizes on the expertise of each institution, providing a blend of academic and practical experience. You may begin this joint study program at any of the three institutions.

As an interdisciplinary program, Developmental Studies draws perspectives and methods from many disciplines to provide a coherent analysis of development. It allows you to customize your university education to fit your educational and career goals by taking courses from a number of different departments, including Anthropology, Biology, Business and Administration, Conflict Resolution Studies, Education, English, Kinesiology and Applied Health, Philosophy, Politics, Psychology, Sociology, and Statistics. You will find that this program is an exciting and challenging mix of theory with practice.

Under the regulations of Manitoba Family Services and Consumer Affairs, graduates of this stream are eligible for the highest level of classification—Early Childhood Educator III.

This program allows you to earn two qualifications—a 3-year Bachelor of Arts in Developmental Studies from The University of Winnipeg and a 2-year diploma in Early Childhood Education from Red River College or the Collège Universitaire de Saint-Boniface—in only four years.

SAMPLE CAREERS

Our graduates are poised to take on a leadership role in childcare in Manitoba. They may find employment in government and non-government agencies dealing with childcare services or human service-oriented professions. Positions include childcare centre personnel, supervisors, and program directors. Graduates may also find work as family and community support facilitators, child-life therapists, or staff specializing in programs for the developmentally delayed and other children with special needs.

SAMPLE COURSES

Applied Child Development is a third-year course that focuses on the application of theory and research in child development. The course primarily covers theories and research relating to developmental periods before adolescence and discusses implications of these for the practitioner, parent, and professional working both with children who are developing normally and with children who have special needs.

Speech and Language Disorders in Children is a third-year course designed to introduce students to the field of communication disorders in children. Topics include the identification of different types of communication disorders, procedures in the evaluation and treatment of these disorders, and practical experience in clinical report writing and record keeping.
