INTRODUCTION

The Department of Indigenous Studies/IS (formerly the Aboriginal Governance Program) is grounded in the intellectual and cultural heritage of Indigenous peoples in Canada and around the globe. Students from all backgrounds and disciplines develop critical thinking skills through interdisciplinary coursework offered by the IS faculty. The Department recognizes and honors the central role of language as carrier of culture, conveyor of tradition and knowledge, and signifier of individual and community identity by supporting the teaching of the indigenous languages Ojibwe and Cree. The relationship of the department with Indigenous peoples in Canada and abroad is one of reciprocity and support. The preparation of students includes the introduction of alternative world views involving interrelated themes of land, self-determination, cultural preservation and revitalization, indigenous knowledge and natural resources, historical agency, and representations of Indigenous peoples.

We recommend that undergraduate students in the major meet with an Academic Advisor and/or Indigenous Studies faculty to design a major that meets their needs and interests. Students who wish to combine knowledge on indigenous topics with other majors are encouraged to pursue the Minor in Indigenous Studies.

The Department of Indigenous Studies participates in the Interdepartmental Minor in Comparative Literature. For eligible courses, please see Comparative Literature in this Calendar.

The joint program draws on the distinctive strengths of two institutions to provide students both with a broad, multi-dimensional perspective on indigenous self-governance, and with concrete skills necessary for employment in the self-government field. Students may begin the joint program at either Red River College or The University of Winnipeg.

SUMMARY OF THE RED RIVER COLLEGE ABORIGINAL SELF-GOVERNMENT ADMINISTRATION PROGRAM

Aboriginal Self-Government Administration is a two-year diploma program with an annual September entry date. It will provide training for Aboriginal students in the Aboriginal self-government process. With the ongoing expansion of Aboriginal self-government in Canada today, there is a corresponding need for Canadian Indigenous peoples to be trained in all the fundamental aspects of the self-government process, including knowledge of traditional and existing models, and the skills associated with administration, management, research, and policy analysis.

After successfully completing this program, students will have learned the fundamental aspects of the self-government process. They will be trained to gather and compile information using the most current techniques in information technology, to conduct research, to prepare documentation, to present materials, and to analyze programs and proposals as they relate to self-governance. Students will be prepared to function effectively in environments that are committed or sensitive to issues related to Canadian Indigenous peoples' self-governance.
