

Concordia University of Edmonton (CUE) is Canada's pre-eminent small university. Our campus is a river valley oasis near a dynamic and growing city centre. This is a school where people of varied interests and instincts come together to develop independent thinking, in and out of the classroom. Our priority is to prime students for whatever their future may hold, for success in a career or advanced study, but also in life more generally, and we believe there is a uniquely CUE way to do it. We can sit in the back. But at CUE, someone will always invite us to the front.

Graduate Studies at Concordia University of Edmonton offers you a chance to continue your studies to a higher level across an array of unique programs and diverse fields. Here, you are able to dig deeper, follow your passion, and impact society at local, national and international levels. You'll complete your program enlightened and prepared to take on a career in your respective field.

We offer excellent top graduate degree programs that are recognized and respected both in Canada and internationally. CUE's Graduate Programs provide students with advanced instruction in specialized fields, the ability to conduct advanced research and to foster the highest ethical and professional standards possible. We currently provide the following graduate programs:

Masters Programs

Education

Information Systems Assurance Management

Information Systems Security Management

Graduate Diplomas

Information Security

Information Assurance

Environmental Public Health Practice

Psychological Assessment

Graduate Certificate

Psychological Assessment

