Increased Awareness

Knowledge Gained:
Increased knowledge among community members about safety and anti-oppression.

Community Mobilization: Greater community involvement and mobilization around safety concerns.

Policy Changes:
Positive changes in local policies that promote safety and reduce oppressive factors.

Reduced Oppression:
A decrease in oppressive incidents and increased support for marginalized groups.

Improved Safety:
Enhanced community safety as a result of project activities and policy changes.

Short-Term Goal: To raise community awareness about safety and oppression through educational workshops, engagement, and outreach, fostering a sense of shared responsibility.

Intermediate Goal:
To advocate for and achieve tangible policy changes and community initiatives that actively promote safety, dismantle oppressive systems, and prioritize equity.

Long-Term Goal: To cultivate a resilient and inclusive community where safety is a fundamental right, and oppressive structures have been significantly dismantled, creating an environment where all individuals thrive without fear of discrimination or harm.

A resilient and inclusive South Valour Community where safety is a fundamental right, and oppressive structures have been significantly dismantled, creating an environment where all individuals thrive without fear of discrimination or harm.

Assumptions: A community safety project using an anti-oppressive approach includes the recognition that safety concerns within the community are often caused by oppressive systems and structures. These assumptions further entail a commitment to equity and social justice, expecting that addressing oppressive factors will result in improved safety outcomes. Additionally, it assumes that engaging the community in these efforts will cause increased awareness, empowerment, and effective solutions, leading to a safer and more equitable community overall.

External Factors: Economic conditions, policy environment, community dynamics, media perception, government support, cultural changes, advocacy groups, legal frameworks, and public health issues.
