

FACULTY OF GRADUATE STUDIES

CULTURAL STUDIES: CURATORIAL PRACTICES (MA)

The Master of Arts (MA) in Cultural Studies: Curatorial Practices is intended to give students an excellent foundation in both academic and professional aspects of gallery and museum work.

This course-based MA offers a mixture of theoretical and practical courses in the Curatorial Practices specialization that will introduce students to critical issues in the study of visual cultures. Historical and contemporary curatorial principles are studied in a seminar format as well as engaging in a hands-on Practicum course with individual placements in partnered art institutions.

Information about specific faculty research interests can be found on the Cultural Studies website at <http://uwinnipeg.ca/cultural-studies> and on the faculty member's home departmental website.

The expected time to graduate is 12 months (full-time) or 24 months (part-time); maximum is 3 years.

SAMPLE CAREERS

Graduates will be prepared for employment in visual arts institutions as curators, art historians, critical writers, gallery educators; in the fields of communications, and in museums; they may also go on to pursue further doctoral studies in Art History.

SAMPLE COURSES

Practicum in Curatorial Studies/Special Studies in Cultural Theories and Practices This course combines the theory and practice of curatorial work, public history and experiential learning for students interested in achieving a university credit by working with a local museum or art gallery. Students are expected to work 6 hours a week in the host institution, as well as attend classes once a week, for a more theoretical perspective. Partnerships opportunities include local galleries and museums.

The History of Museums and Collecting/Topics in Visual Cultures Museums do more than just collect art objects; they display and produce culture. This course examines the collecting practices of Western museums, before and after the Enlightenment, as well as ideologies of collecting. We investigate how museums developed in tandem with the discipline of art history, and how both institutions were dependent on nineteenth and twentieth century ideologies of nationalism and colonialism. Students study how artifacts and collections function in the construction of cultural and national identities.

Advanced Studies in Art History This course addresses interpretations of selected topics in Art History as they have appeared in the literature. Possible topics may include Feminism and Art History, Theories and Methods for Art History, or the work of a particular artist, period or movement.
