THE UNIVERSITY OF WINNIPEG

Faculty of Business and Economics

Exams are over, what's next?

Do you have a plan for your summer? In fact, do you have a plan for your life - besides getting a good education and solid footing for your future career?

You may be surprised to learn that just about every experience you have right now, be it big or small, is significant. It not only shapes you as a person, but you'll most likely fall back on a specific experience many times over the course of the rest of your career and life in general!

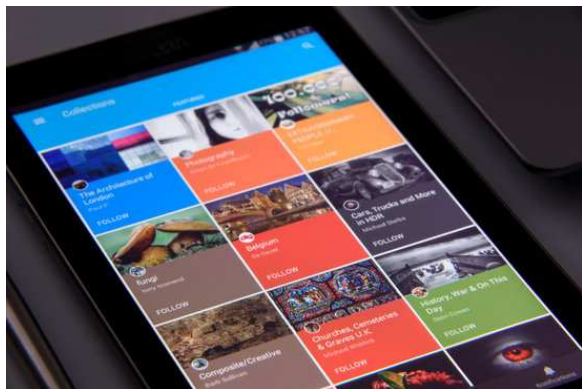

Most students have a rough map of their life.

That's what brought you to post-secondary, to

The University of Winnipeg, and to this Faculty. That's a big step, and it took a whole lot of smaller steps to get here that included graduating high school, perhaps relocating, saving and/or securing financing, and then there's all the hard work of term papers and studying for exams!

As you can clearly see, the little steps matter! The little goals are stepping stones to achieving that bigger goal. This brings us back to your summer, this summer. Exams are now over (big sigh of relief), but this is not the time to put your heels up! Okay, put them up for a day or two . . . but then create a plan. Your summer plan. Think of all the skills you'd like to talk about to a future employer. Imagine the conversations. The volunteer work. All the summer events that you took part of and learned amazing things about places, people and interactions! Think about music, art, architecture or whatever it is that you're even slightly interested in and how that can augment your dialogues and perhaps be the building blocks for a new hobby. In addition to this, you'll be naturally networking, meeting new people outside of your current realm, and strengthening soft skills.

All of this, too, is learning, building and working towards that big goal!

The Spring/Summer Newsletter

The distribution of our Spring/Summer FBE Newsletter mail out schedule will be reduced to once a month, and/or as needed for news and updates until the fall term commences. Please make sure you review the newsletter when it shows up in your mailbox, as it may contain pertinent information on events, changes, or news that may be of interest or importance. Have a good summer everyone!

Songdo, South Korea? It may not be as perfect as you think according to Dr. Albert, Professor at The Faculty of Business and Economics. She goes on to explain that there's a long way to go all the promises can be made possible. According to her article, 'We haven't figured out how to make utopian environments work for people. We have a long road ahead to make improvements that will both preserve the environment and improve our quality of life.'
