How and why YOU should get involved

We've talked to our recent grads, and asked them the number one advice they'd give to every university student and you may be surprised by their answer! (Hint: It's not to study or sleep more, although that always helps).

Students tell us - across the board - that when you're in University, to make sure to get involved with the student groups and activities. Besides having a great time and getting a break from studying, there are several more reasons to get engaged.

Joining a student group - or even supporting a student group - broadens your perspectives, helps you make new friends, grow as a person and connect with your peers. You'll build impressive professional skills and a more robust resume by the time you graduate. Our student groups participate in case competitions often traveling to other parts of Canada, and help raise money for important causes. Besides having a lot more fun while you're a student here; networking with like-minded individuals raises the bar, and your career aspirations as well.

We have several student groups that include JDC West, UWASA (UWinnipeg Accounting Students' Association), BASA (Business Administration Students' Association), FESA (Finance and Economics Students Association), and UWIG (UWinnipeg Investment Group). Check them out and find the one(s) that best suit your interests. It doesn't matter which one you choose, there's no wrong answer!
