Alexander Freund

You may have already heard the news: The Chair in German-Canadian Studies at the University of Winnipeg is no longer vacant. I took up the position on May 1 and immediately began to experience 'Friendly Manitoba' at the German-Canadian Studies Foundation’s Welcome Evening at the UW’s Eckardt-Grammate-Hall on May 9. For those of you who could not attend this event, I would like to briefly sketch my goals and visions for the Chair.

The mandate of the Chair in German-Canadian Studies encompasses three areas of activity: teaching, research, and community relations.

While I will develop initiatives in all three fields, let me tell you a bit about one of my specialisations, one which covers and integrates them all: oral history.

Oral history in the classroom has been a success story at both the school and university level, especially in seminars on ethnic and migration history. In the next few years, my students will learn the practice of history in part by interviewing immigrants and their descendants, transcribing the interviews, and archiving them for future research.

Another major goal as Chair will be to establish a collection of oral history interviews with and (auto)biographical sources of German-speaking immigrants and their descendants in Canada (see p. 2).

By its very nature as community-centred research, oral history is also a powerful link between the university and the community.

Let me take this opportunity to thank the Chair’s Founding Families and the University of Winnipeg, especially the History Department and the Vice President-Academic’s Office for bringing me to Winnipeg. Special thanks go to Hans Werner (History) and Linda Dietrick (German Studies) who in the last two years did wonderful work as interim chairs.

I am looking forward to meeting many of you over the next months, and encourage you to use this newsletter as a forum of exchange.

Interim Chair

Hans P. Werner, Ph.D.

It has been a busy and productive year. My objective as Interim Chair was to begin rejuvenating the program after a period of reduced activity due to the absence of a Chairholder. In keeping with the Chair’s three-pronged mandate I taught, conducted research, and organized activities for the German Canadian community.

During this year I have made many new German Canadian acquaintances and widened my contacts in the community of German migration scholars. I have also had the privilege of working together with Professor Alexander Freund for the last few months as he took over the position of permanent Chairholder. This was all very enjoyable and I value the experiences and relationships that have resulted. At the end of my time as Interim Chair, I am even more persuaded of the importance and enormity of the task. I look forward to a continuing association with the Chair in telling the German Canadian story.

Dr. Hans P. Werner served as Interim Chair in German-Canadian Studies in 2001-2002.
Angelika Sauer has built the chair for German-Canadian Studies in her term from 1995-2000 into a successful institution. With a newsletter, a website, a comprehensive fellowship program, an open seminar series as well as conferences and publications, she has given German-Canadian Studies in Canada new weight and a modern image.

I hope to continue this success. Many things will be maintained: The newsletter will be published regularly. The UW has agreed to adopt the website of the chair as a pilot project for their new website program. Fellowships will be given again (see p. 3). The seminar series will run this month again (see p. 4). Conferences and publications will follow soon.

As a new project, an "Oral History and Biographies Collection" is planned. The management has given green light to this project at its meeting on July 4, 2002. In cooperation with regional, national and international partners, a collection of sources will be created in the next five years, which will attract researchers from all over the world to Winnipeg.

The universities of Manitoba have seen an increase in student enrollment in the new academic year. This has affected the course in German-Canadian Studies taught in the Department of History at the University of Winnipeg. "Canadian Immigration and Settlement" is a course for first-year students and students studying history for the first time. Enrollment for this course is at the maximum of 40 students, with a handful of students on the waiting list. Students in this course learn three sets of skills: study skills, historical methods, and an understanding of migration as a category of analysis. They will learn about the history of transatlantic migrations from the 17th century to the present. Focusing on Germany as the sending country and Canada as a receiving country, students will study why people left their home countries at different points in the past, how they organized their migration, what they experienced in their new home land, why they moved on to other countries, returned to Europe, or stayed in Canada. In 2003-2004 students will be able to take advanced third-year seminars in German-Canadian Studies.

After many years of research, Professor Manfred Prokop (University of Alberta) has completed the bibliography of the Cultural History of the German-speaking Community in Alberta: 1882-2000. The online database includes annotated references to 6,500 primary and secondary sources in Alberta's libraries, archives and private collections. The sources range from books and articles to newspapers, artwork, cooking recipes, church records, letters and oral histories. Initiated by the German-Canadian Association of Alberta, the project was funded in part by the Chair in German-Canadian Studies. The URL is: http://www.ualberta.ca/~german/altahistory/. The bibliography is also available in book form (700 pages) for $22.50 (+ shipping). Contact: Manfred.Prokop@ualberta.ca.
Fellowship Programme Restarted and Expanded

The German-Canadian Studies Fellowship Programme has been restarted and expanded. Four kinds of financial support are now offered by the Chair.

The Research Scholarship Programme offers two annual international graduate research scholarships of $6,500 (M.A.) and $8,500 (Ph.D.) to promising young scholars.

Every year, four international research grants of up to $1,000 each are offered to a variety of researchers studying the past and present experiences of German-speaking immigrants and their descendants in Manitoba. Both academic and non-academic researchers as well as community, school, and other collaborative projects are welcome to apply for a grant. There are two competitions each year.

Two annual Undergraduate Prizes of $500 are awarded to UW students with the highest marks in courses relating to German and German-Canadian culture and history.

A new annual $500 prize for the best Undergraduate Essay on a German-Canadian topic will be awarded for the first time in 2003. The competition is open to all undergraduate students enrolled at a Canadian college or university.

Zeitzeugen gesucht: Wer ist vor 1945 gekommen?

Nur wenige Bücher berichten über diese vielfältigen Einwanderungen nach Kanada vor 1945. Eine wichtige Quelle zur Erschließung dieser Geschichte sind Interviews mit Zeitzeugen. Eine Sammlung solcher Interviews soll deshalb in Winnipeg aufgebaut werden (s. S. 2). Wenn Sie vor 1945 nach Kanada gekommen sind und über Ihre Erfahrungen berichten möchten oder wenn Sie mehr zum Interviewablauf oder der Sammlung wissen möchten, kontaktieren Sie bitte den Chair in German-Canadian Studies.

H-GAGCS To Be Revived

As Chair in German-Canadian Studies I was recently hired on as a voluntary co-editor of the email discussion group H-GAGCS (German American German Canadian Studies). The list is part of H-Net, a worldwide electronic forum for researchers and teachers in the Humanities and Social Sciences. H-GAGC’s main editor is Joseph Salmon of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, and the Max Kade Institute. Robert W. Frizzell, Director of Libraries at Northwest Missouri State University, is the list’s review editor. Because in past years the list has suffered from under-use, we hope to revive it by initiating discussions, inviting book and conference reviews, and posting journals’ tables-of-content.

The Chair in German-Canadian Studies was established in 1989 with grants from the Secretary of State's Program for Canadian Ethnic Studies and a group of private philanthropists within the German-Canadian community of Winnipeg. It is located in, and affiliated with the History Department at the University of Winnipeg, Manitoba.

The Chair promotes the teaching of, and research into the history and culture of German-speaking immigrants and their descendants in Canada. It interacts with the German-Canadian community in Winnipeg, Manitoba and the rest of Canada through public lectures and the newsletter. The Chair promotes regional, national and international research through conferences, grants and publications.

Immigrants’ Love Story Traced Through Letters

Katherine Martens: Tina Willms-Nicolai Martens Letters 1920s-1950s
Thursday, 19 September 2002
University of Winnipeg Faculty Club, 7:30 p.m.

"Were for instance some unauthorized person to read our letters would it not cause a scornful twitching around their mouth?" Nic Martens wondered on 11 July 1926 in one of his early love letters to Tina Willms. Both had come with their families from the Ukraine in the 1920s. They were part of the great exodus of 20,000 Mennonites migrating from the Soviet Union to Canada between 1923 and 1930.

After living with their families in Manitoba, the young couple followed Tina's family to Ontario. Theirs is a fascinating correspondence, especially because, unlike most couples, Nic and Tina continued to write to each other long after they had married.

The correspondence describes their courtship and marriage in 1926, the birth of their daughter in 1929, the ups and downs of adjusting in a new country that was plagued by the Great Depression and involved in the Second World War, and Tina’s dramatic struggle with tuberculosis. "Their story of perseverance," says Katherine Martens, "is as unique as it is universal." Together with Brigitte Diop, Martens translated from German the 400-page collection of letters written by members of the Martens and Willms families between 1926 and 1950.

Martens, who is from Winnipeg, is the author of the family memoir All in A Row: The Klassens of Home-wood (Winnipeg: Mennonite Literary Society, 1988) and several articles. To support her translation, she received a Research Grant from the Chair in German-Canadian Studies in 1998. Martens hopes to publish the work soon.
